If an easement goes under a building will there be compensation for limiting future development rights?	Yes, there is a process to value all aspects of the property owner's rights including changing the potential for what can be developed on the site in the future.
Public Comment: How is the compensation developed? Is there a second opinion? In London, there is a very streamlined process for right-of-way acquisition.	There are appraisals and formulas. "Highest and best" use is the standard used for assessing value. Owners can get their own appraisals, and they are covered for the cost of doing that.

Transit Oriented Communities Strategy Study
What is the magnitude of all the suggested projects and how will they be paid for?	The projects listed add up into the tens of millions. A variety of funding sources will need to be used from grants to developer fees and perhaps value capture from other development.
Public Comment: Is Diridon in this process?	No, it is planned separately. That said, we are coordinating with their effort.

Follow-Up Items:

- Determine how much interest has been earned on the Measure B money to date – included in summary above
- Supply link to list of eligible highway projects included in summary above
- Determine what the financial relationship is between 2000 Measure A funds and the 2016 Measure B funds. Have the Measure A funds been borrowed, and will they be paid back? included in summary above
- CWG Members to review and comment on Station Profiles Draft Document (provided previously via email) by April 30, 2019
- Add TIF Update to the Government Affairs Update topic for June
- Add link to TOD Workshop PowerPoint in meeting summary www.vta.org/bart/tocs on the right under "TOCs Strategy Study" subheading
